Capitol Building to be Closed to the Public Saturday

Jefferson City—The Capitol Building will be closed to the public all day Saturday, so that the water may be shut off for work in the building, according to the State Office of Administration. It is asked that the public avoid entering the Capitol at all that day. While closing the building is a rare occurrence, it is hoped the public will be able to work around this inconvenience, and visit another day. Great effort is made to keep the Capitol open routinely seven days a week.
